my S-tf R. W. FALLS, Agent. AUCTIONEER'S NOTICE.

THE subscriber informs his friends and the 1 public in general that he has renewed his license as an Auctioneer for the present year .--From his past experience and general knowledge of business, he flatters himself to be fully qualified to discharge the duties of the profession to the entire satisfaction of all parties who may be concerned. To those who have encouraged him in his efforts to make a support in the place of hi nativity, (rather than to remore elsewhere for the purpose.) he returns his thanks, hoping they will continue their patronage, and that others may be induced to favor him with a portion of their business in the future. The subscriber will render his services as Auctioneer in the making of sales for Commissioners, Trustees, Administrators, &c , for a stipulated sum, to be agreed upon; also for cargo sales, after securing the per centage to be paid to the State and Corporation. This mode is much fairer than the usual plan of selling for a commission on sales-and it practicable under the re eant license law. Parties will know exactly what amount they will have to pay for services rendered. Sales of merchandize will be made at his store, No. 88 King street, at reasonable rates. No limited goods received, unless by special agreement, ap 21-dtMay28 JOHN T. CREIGHTON.

HONORABLE STEALING .- Old Bodge was one of the original proprietors of the City of Bangor, now so flourishing on the banks of the Penobscot. At one time he was worth property, but he took kindly to drink, ran through his property, and became a notorious loafer and thief. While old Bodge was enjoying this reputation, one of the merchants of the town had a vessel of fish come into the port. He went down to the wharf and met old Bodge there, evidently casting about him for chances. "Now," said the merchant, "I see what you are up to, and I will give you five of the best fish in that cargo, if you will promise me on your word and honor not to steal any from it." Old Bodge took the offer under consideration, said it was rather "crowding him," but finally concluded to accept it. But he was about again in the afternoon; the cargo was a large one, and it became evident that all the fish would not be got under lock and key before night; and just at sunset old Bodge returned. lugging his five fish with scrupulous honesty .-"Here, Squire, said he, 'I've concluded I can do better, and I will give up that con-
